You have the power to prevent cavities.

Babies are not born with the germs that cause cavities – they get them from grown-ups. By taking a few simple steps, you can avoid spreading harmful bacteria to your baby's mouth. Here's how you can make sure your child is free from cavities and other painful, expensive dental diseases:

- Don't put things in your mouth before your baby's – no sharing spoons, forks, or cups.
- Put only formula, milk, or water in a baby bottle – no juice or sweet drinks.
- Don't dip pacifiers in honey or sugar.
- All children should see a dentist by their first birthday.

Cavities are the most widespread childhood disease in the U.S. and can lead to a lifetime of pain, self-esteem issues, and learning problems. You have the power to stop them!

Recommended Dental Care Schedule for Babies
No Teeth	Clean gums with a clean wash cloth morning and night.
With Teeth	Brush teeth with a soft toothbrush and fluoride toothpaste twice a day.

Did you Know?

Vomiting: Wait 30 to 60 minutes before brushing your teeth after vomiting to avoid rubbing the acid from your stomach over your teeth. Exposure to these acids causes damage to the tooth's outer surface (enamel) and can lead to permanent weakening of the teeth, overly sensitive and discolored teeth, decay, and other complications.

Instead, immediately swish with a mixture of one cup of water and one tsp baking soda to neutralize some of the acid and brush 30 to 60 minutes later.

Acid Reflux or GERD: The stomach's gastric acids come back up through the long tube between your stomach and mouth. Constant exposure to these acids causes damage to the tooth's outer surface (enamel) These conditions left untreated can have an impact on overall health as well as oral health.

Dental Disease is Preventable.

If left untreated, cavities and other dental infections can lead to serious health problems. These infections can spread to other parts of the body and, in very rare cases, be life threatening. The good news is that most dental disease can often be prevented with these healthy habits:

- ☐ Brush your teeth twice every day for two minutes with fluoride toothpaste.
- ☐ Floss between all your teeth, every day.
- ☐ See your dentist regularly – ideally every six months.
- ☐ Drink plenty of water, eat a balanced diet, and limit between-meal snacks.
- ☐ Avoid starchy, sweet, and sticky foods, as well as sugary drinks.
- ☐ Don't smoke or use tobacco products.

Good health starts with your smile, so get your mouth in shape starting today. With proper care a healthy smile should last a lifetime.

Start protecting your baby's smile now.

Taking good care of your teeth during pregnancy is important for you and your baby. Left untreated, severe gum disease may be associated with preterm birth and low birth weight. Protect your teeth:

- Brush twice daily with a fluoride toothpaste, and floss daily.
- Limit sugary foods.
- Drink water or low-fat milk instead of soda.
- If you have morning sickness, rinse your mouth with a teaspoon of baking soda and water after vomiting to remove harmful acid; wait 30 minutes, and then brush your teeth.
- Chew sugarless gum after eating.

Snacking, nausea, and hormonal changes are a natural part of pregnancy, but can make you particularly vulnerable to dental disease. By taking good care of your smile during pregnancy, you are protecting your baby's teeth, too!

Be a Smart Mouth with a Healthy Smile.

Your smile is one of the first things people notice. Keeping it healthy is up to you. Cavities, bad breath, gum disease, and other dental problems can happen to anyone; but are often preventable. Here's how you can be a smart mouth:

- ☐ Brush your teeth twice every day for two minutes with fluoride toothpaste.
- ☐ Floss between all your teeth, every day.
- ☐ See your dentist regularly – ideally every six months.
- ☐ Drink water and avoid sugary beverages like soda, sports, and energy drinks.
- ☐ Avoid starchy, sweet, and sticky snacks like hard candy, chips, and crackers.
- ☐ Wear a mouth guard when playing sports.
- ☐ Don't pierce your tongue, mouth, or lips, or use tobacco products.

A healthy smile should last a lifetime.

Cavities can be extremely painful and treatment very costly for parents. If left untreated, tooth decay can cause school absences and negatively impact a child's development and self-esteem. It doesn't have to be this way – you have the power to prevent dental disease!

- Take your child to the dentist every six months.
- Make sure your kids brush with fluoride toothpaste twice a day and floss daily.
- Brush and floss your children's teeth until they're coordinated enough to tie their shoes, usually around age six.
- Limit sugary foods and drinks, and drink fluoridated water.
- Get dental sealants (a liquid coating that prevents tooth decay) by age six to protect the first permanent molars.

Cavities are the most common childhood disease in the U.S. – yet they can almost always be prevented. Take good care of your child's teeth now through simple, preventative activities to avoid significant problems later.
