

Considerations for Medical Providers Supporting Patients with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities in Emergency Situations

June 3, 2021, 12:00 – 1:30

Please join us for a free training addressing the needs of individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) in emergency situations. This 1.5 hour training will include a brief didactic followed by a panel discussion. CMEs will be offered through the Medical Society of Delaware. Please contact Patricia Heineman (heineman@udel.edu) with questions or to request accommodations.

Registration is free and open to the public: <https://msdcme.rievent.com/a/PWRODI>

Charmaine Smith Wright, MD
Internal Medicine, Pediatrics

Dr. Wright is an internal medicine specialist in Wilmington, DE. She has more than 18 years of diverse experiences in Internal and Pediatric Medicine. Dr. Wright currently serves as Director of the Center for Special Health Care Needs at Christiana Care Christiana Hospital.

Michael Wade Shrader, MD
Division of Orthopedics, Department of Orthopedic Surgery

Dr. Wade Shrader is a pediatric orthopedic surgeon and division chief of the Nemours Cerebral Palsy Center. He serves on the board of directors, American Academy of Cerebral Palsy and Developmental Medicine. As a parent of two sons with cerebral palsy (CP), Dr. Shrader is an advocate for improved healthcare and access to society for individuals with disabilities.

Emmanuel Jenkins
Delaware Developmental Disabilities Council

Mr. Jenkins's work focuses on community engagement and supporting people with disabilities through advocacy and self-empowerment. He serves on multiple state councils and task forces, including at the pleasure of Governor Carney on the Employment First Oversight Commission. Mr. Jenkins is a Partners in Policymaking Class of 2014 graduate and founder of the non-profit organization We Stand 4 Something.